OLD ROOF IS REMOVED FROM MISSION; NEW ONE GOING ON

PIGEONS, mice, bats and termites were rudely disturbed this week when their homes were opened to the light of day in the process of tearing the old roof from Carmel Mission. The work is proceeding under the supervision of Milton Latham, architect, and Harry Downie, curator of the mission. The skeleton of a dead eagle was also discovered in a dark corner of the old loft.

Original roof lines of the historic structure will be restored in the course of repairs, made necessary by the wear and tear of many years. During the past two rainy seasons, the roof has leaked badly, resulting in weakening of certain portions of the adobe walls. For the present, roofing paper will be used, as funds are not available for the tile roof which is eventually hoped for, both for effective protection and as historically appropriate. The tile can eventually be laid over the roofing paper which will fill in the breach for the present. During the current program of repairs the belfry tower will be strengthened and the floor of the church will be waterproofed.

Parking on Dolores Will Be Limited Starting Tomorrow

Beginning tomorrow, the 45-minute parking regulation on Dolores between Seventh and Ocean will be enforced, according to Chief of Police Robert A. Norton. Though signs limiting parking time have been posted for several years, particularly during the quieter months of the year it has not been customary to enforce the regulation. Expecting a busy summer and serious traffic congestion, the police are getting an early start in order to accustom drivers to observing the time limit. Dolores shop-keepers, who themselves fill up most of the available parking space, are looking for likely berths for their cars on the side streets.

State Controller Riley to Explain Liquor Law at Mass Meeting Here

RAY L. RILEY, state controller, Rex-officio member of the Board of Equalization, who is to address a mass meeting at Sunset auditorium at 8 o'clock next Friday evening, May 22, has broken with his fellow board members over their system of enforcing the California liquor control law, and over the constitutional amendment setting up a separate Liquor Control Board, fostered by the state board. State Controller Riley was chosen by members of the Carmel council and a group of citizens to be the speaker at the mass meeting to consider the Carmel liquor situation because it was believed he was in a better position than any other available speaker to tell Carmel just what its rights are under the present law, and just how relief from indiscriminate and unlimited issuance of liquor licenses by the state could be obtained, if not under the present law, then under some new legislation. Councilman James H. Thoburn will preside over the mass meeting as chairman.

Characterizing the proposed Liquor Control Board amendment as a "gold brick" offered the people of California, Riley has said that the present administration of liquor control could do any and all things that are provided in the new amendment, if they chose; that the amendment would cost the taxpayer a million dollars in new expense and establish a new government agency.

"Members of the State Board of Equalization," says Riley, "have adroitly employed the growing public resentment that has arisen from their maladministration of liquor control in framing the amendment. Moreover, being fearful of their political future, the proposed amendment enables them to dodge an election until 1941 or 1943, and at the same time double their salaries from $4000 to $8000 a year, with an additional elective member. A liquor control commission is provided with a personnel of three, with salaries at $8000 a year, who are vested with added powers.

"The prohibition against saloons now being enforced by the Board of Equalization will be repealed. Price fixing by the commission will be authorized.

"The real purpose of the amendment," Riley declares, "is to build a political organization in this state that would dominate elections for years to come, for control of liquor and taxation is a very persuasive combination. The effectiveness of this combination is assured by providing 25 political appointments exempt from civil service with no restriction whatsoever on salaries.

"Undoubtedly large sums of money will be available to publicize the proposal, as the liquor interests of California are in no position to ignore the wishes of a state board that can deny a license to operate.

"Apparently the spirit of Huey Long carries on in California."

GEORGE MARION TO SPEAK TO DRAMATIC SEMINAR

George Marion, veteran actor of the stage and screen, dean of Carmel dramatic circles, has been secured as speaker for the Monday evening dramatic seminar at Sunset school next week. His message to Carmel amateurs will be of interest and value, as was that of Fredric Burt, another Carmel veteran, who addressed the seminar at a recent meeting.

LAUMEISTER BUYS LOTS

Gustave Laumeister has purchased from Mrs. Mary R. Howard, three lots on Monte Verde near Thirteenth.

— Strong Backing —

Hale's Candidacy Endorsed by Ewig

E. H. Ewig, president of Sunset school board of trustees, has issued a statement strongly endorsing Donald Hale as candidate in the forthcoming school trustee election. Mr. Ewig is the retiring member of the board, for whose seat Mr. Hale is candidate.

"Donald Hale is the logical candidate for this position," said Mr. Ewig, "inasmuch as he has been a resident of Carmel for 30 years, and has been closely in touch with the school ever since his own graduation from it. He has two children in the school, and has shown a consistent interest in the school program, as well as devoting considerable time to the school ball teams.

"Mr. Hale is a property owner, a taxpayer and business man in Carmel, and is particularly well-fitted to take over the trusteeship. He has been mentioned as a candidate several times in the past, and I am sure that with the attention he customarily gives to all his undertakings, he will make an outstanding trustee."

MAY RAIN BRINGS .31 OF INCH TO CARMEL

Rain began falling just before midnight Wednesday, and up to 8 o'clock yesterday morning, had registered a precipitation of .31 inches. Wednesday morning rainfall of .03 was registered, making a total of .34 for May so far. This was not a post-season rain, as May is considered a part of the rainy season, a total of .32 falling in May last year. Total for the season is now 19.97 inches.

MISSION ESCAPES DAMAGE

Caught by an unexpected rain with its roof off, Carmel Mission escaped the Wednesday night showers with little damage. It was reported yesterday morning. There was some rain in the sacristy, but not much more than when the old roof was in place.

— Salary Increased —

Sunset Trustees Elect Teachers, Approve Salaries for Next Year

NEW salary schedules were approved and teachers for next year were elected at the meeting of Sunset Board of Trustees held the evening of May 7. In addition to the two new teachers, Arthur C. Hull and Hope Thomas, replacing Mrs. Anna Kohner and Miss Althea Kendall, resigned, the teaching staff includes: Ernest R. Calley, Madeline M. Currey, Anna Marie Baer, Roy J. Gale, Frances C. Johnson, Anne V. Uzzell, Frances Farley, Bernita Ninneman, Edna C. Lockwood, Lilly C. Trowbridge, Bernice Riley, Elinor Smith and Blanche Heninger. The salary schedule for next year gives each teacher $5 additional monthly.

It was announced this week that Miss Ruth Thelma Smith of Santa Cruz graduating this June from San Jose state college, has also been elected to the Sunset staff. She comes with exceptionally fine qualifications as an instructor in English, the social studies, art and physical education.

Read by Trustee A. G. E. Hanke and incorporated in the minutes was a letter previously requested from District Attorney Anthony Brazil, setting forth in detail his opinion on the earthquake issue and the lateral force bill as it affects Carmel. This is believed to close definitely the question of the liability of school trustees in the possibility of earthquake damage, as they have done everything required of them by law in the direction of safeguarding the school.

It was brought out at the meeting that the district is in a healthy financial state. During the current year, rental of the auditorium has brought in revenue of more than $1600.

The board expressed appreciation for the fine performance and exhibits of Public School Week. To the Sunset P-T. A. was sent a letter of thanks for the celotex display panels purchased and installed on the west wall of the lunchroom.

Legion to Begin Remodelling Hall

Work of renovating the Legion-Manzanita hall will start a week from tomorrow, according to Milton Latham, who with Guy Koeppe, has completed the building plans. The project is expected to cost about $3000.

The present main entrance to the building will be eliminated, and a new front door will be opened at the southwest corner of the present north wing. A spacious reception hall will lead into the new lounge, which will have a fireplace, book niches and other homey touches. A new powder room and cloak room will be added, and the present assembly hall, enlarged by the moving of the main entrance, will be redecorated. A tap room, card room and kitchen will occupy the north wing.

The changes and improvements will all be effected without changing either the outlines or the area of the present building, by moving partitions and redistributing the floor-space.

PLAN COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM AT SUNSET

Plans are well under way at Sunset school for the various events in the commencement program. The eighth graders are busy in preparation for Class Day, Friday, May 29. The graduating class will receive diplomas at the commencement exercises Wednesday evening, June 10, and the school will close June 12.

Italian Occupation of Ethiopia Given Survey at Woman's Club Meet.

FINAL comment on a number of topics which have engaged the group this season brought to a conclusion the Woman's club current events section activities Wednesday morning. The chairman, Mrs. Lawrence M. Knox, conducted a whirlwind survey, commenting upon the Italian occupation of Ethiopia as the outstanding conquest of recent years, since the World War brought to an apparent close the period of expansion for European nations. The Orient, since that time, however, has raised eyebrows at Western disapproval of territorial expansion and disarmament talk, asking, "How did you get your lands?"

Guerrilla warfare might have prolonged the African conflict indefinitely, Mrs. Knox pointed out, but the Ethiopian tendency to mass attack was fatal. In the rioting in Addis Ababa following evacuation of the capital by the royal family, is seen the primitive tendency to destroy one's own when it is menaced by an invader. As a result of present disagreements, Mrs. Knox predicted that Italy will finally withdraw from the League of Nations, and that may conceivably mean the end of the League.

Recommended to be watched during the summer are rumors of pacts between Hitler and Mussolini, between Japan and Germany; the French situation, with one-fifth of the new Chamber of Deputies made up of Communists, whether Leon Blum, anathema to Hitler as a Socialist and a Jew, becomes premier, or whether some more conservative premier, more internationally acceptable, is chosen.

General discussion occupied the latter half of the section's final meeting.

LYON FUNERAL HELD

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Paul's mortuary for Mrs. Joseph Maitland Lyon, who passed away in Carmel, her home for the past four years, on Monday evening. Mrs. Lyon was the mother of Mrs. W. O. Raiguel of the Country club. Mrs. Raiguel has gone to Milwaukee to oversee interment of her mother's body in the family plot there.

Menlo Students on Carmel Visit

Thirteen pupils of Miss Josephine Duveneck's private school at Menlo Park visited in Carmel at the end of last week, being entertained overnight in the homes of various Sunset school pupils, and presenting a program at a special assembly last Thursday morning, for the entertainment of their hosts. The boys in the group gave a well-acted mystery melodrama of the "horror" type, and later both boys and girls sang a group of songs, inviting the Sunset boys and girls to join at the close in singing popular songs. To return the compliment, the Sunset a capella chorus also sang. The visiting contingent was most enthusiastically and hospitably received.

The young people from Menlo, with Miss Duveneck, were en route down the coast, camping and visiting a number of schools. Hosts overnight to one or more of the visitors were Max Hagemeyer, Dick Williams, Bobby Froli, Hugh Dormody, Patty Mack, Marilyn Strasburger, Garol Larson and Hazel Mylar. The visitors, aged from 12 to 14, were Don Allan, Alan Bruce, Hale Cochran, Louise Daggett, Margene Johnson, Bob Copp, Peter Lee, Graham Leupp, Bob Manning, Ted Nell, Robert Raymond, Joan Stewart and Frank Wheeler.

Other visitors at Sunset last week were F. Y. Jeffries music supervisor of San Jose schools, and E. V. Henderson, district superintendent of Willow Glen, who were entertained with a brief concert by the a capella chorus.

WEST POINT APPOINTMENT

John Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Argyll Campbell and student at Stanford, has received appointment to West Point from Congressman J. J. McGrath, representative of this district. He will enter the national military academy next fall.

Engineers to Report on Sanitation Soon

Sanitary engineers Clyde C. Kennedy and Harold F. Gray, chosen by the Carmel sanitary board to solve the sewage disposal problem, were here Monday to consult the board on conditions and to make a last check-up before submitting their report on a disposal plan. The plan is to be in the hands of the board within a month.

Many propositions are under consideration, and the board believes that the report of the engineers will eliminate many impractical ideas and suggestions which have been received.

H. W. Turner has returned from San Francisco after an absence of two weeks.

Rotarians Coming for Annual Meet

Rotarians from all parts of the second district will gather at Del Monte this week-end for their ninth annual golf tournament which promises to be the most successful in the history of the event according to O. L. Davis, of Monterey, golf chairman.

The Monterey team last year comprised of Davis, Dr. Harry Brownell, Dr. Hugh Dormody, Eddie Burns and Harry McLean, tied with Bakersfield for the team championship but was defeated in the play-off.

In addition to the team championship this year there will be a perpetual handicap trophy for clubs entering more than one player and less than five; a trophy for low net and a permanent individual trophy for the best individual gross score.

All of these trophies will be played for Sunday, but on Saturday for early arrivals there will be an 18-hole match play versus par.

Jack Morris to Edit Horse and Polo Magazine

Jack Morris, golf professional and writer on things sporting, has accepted the appointment of editor for Horse and Polo, a new monthly publication at Santa Barbara. He will leave at once for his new post and Mrs. Morris will follow when Sunset school closes.

In this month's issue of Horse and Polo Mr. Morris has an article about the recent polo tournament at Del Monte. The article is well illustrated with pictures of leading polo players and enthusiasts.

Horse and Polo has been published for four months and is a sprightly magazine printed on good paper with colored cover.

Valley WPA Camp Being Dismantled

End of this week sees the complete dismantling of Carmel Valley WPA camp, which since established about two years ago as an SERA camp has been the shelter for an average of 100 homeless men. Conservation activities along Carmel river has given employment to the men, and many have from time to time left the camp to take private employment on and around the peninsula, the ranks filling up with additional unemployed men from the cities. About 50 men were earlier transferred to a new camp at King City, and more recently 50 more were moved to San Mateo.

W. J. Bensberg, who has been director of the camp, will remain in Carmel. He and Mrs. Bensberg are living at the Richard Masten place in Carmel Valley.

Dance and Supper Held at Parish Hall

Miss Roe Marie Mattimore entertained a group of her young friends with a dancing party last Friday evening at All Saints parish hall. Allen Knight's orchestra provided music for dancing, and supper was served late in the evening. Miss Mattimore's mother, Ruth Austin, entertained a few of her friends at the same time, including Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bensberg, Miss Betty Horst of San Francisco, Miss Betty Carr, and Byington Ford. Miss Mattimore's guests were: Mary Morse, Gertrude Brouner, Louise Young, Jane Millis, Marjorie Dorrance, Evelyn Cockburn, Babette De Moe, Patty Lou Elliott, Natalie Hatton, Carol Bailey, Sue Chapman, Bill Chapman, Markham and Warren Johnston, Frank Ross, Pearson Menoher, Joe McEl-downey, Jess Owens, Bud Brownell, Teddy Marble, Bob Rand, Earle Dorrance, Bill and John Short, George Wishart, George and Dick Crossman, and Larry McLaren.

Alma Kuehl Enters School Trustee Race

Miss Alma Kuehl, Torres and Mountain View, a resident of Carmel since last September, has announced herself as a candidate for the position of Sunset school trustee, to be voted upon June 5. She came here from Berkeley, where she was a teacher. Miss Kuehl said that while she has not been closely in touch with school affairs here she gathered from the recent exhibit that the school has very fine standards. Her objective as a trustee, she said, would be to maintain those standards.

Carmelites who have passed daily and have watched Whitney's being torn down and rebuilt into a newer and more modern restaurant, will have an opportunity to see just has been going on when the doors open next Wednesday.

The building has been completely remodeled from kitchen to dining room. New table space has been made, and there are luxuriously upholstered benches around the walls. New lighting fixtures, white walls, blue mirrors and red and white edges on blue floors have made this long-popular restaurant into a pleasant place to dine and relax.

According to Willard Whitney, the proprietor, the meals and service will be even better than before.

Sprinkling of Carmel Streets Cause of Mucky Water In Lines

THE street department began Wednesday the much-needed sprinkling of Carmel's unimproved streets, to the gratification of householders along dusty roads, but to the dismay of water users who began to bombard Health and Safety Commissioner Rowntree with complaints of cloudy water. Most vociferous complaint was received from W. E. Mack of Carmel Laundry, who was going around with a pint bottle full of rusty water, wondering how he was supposed to wash Carmel's clothes clean with water like that. It seems that when water is drawn from the fire hydrants, the force of the pressure "riles" up the water all down the line, and when Junipero street is watered, Mr. Mack sometimes has to wash a whole laundryfull of clothes over again.

While sprinkling the streets with water helps to keep the summer dust down, oiling is more effective, but this, it is explained again by the street department, has to be done at the expense of property owners. Owners of lots along any street can, if they like, assess themselves at the rate of about $2 a lot to pay for the material and the city crew will lay the oil. This work must be done in units of at least one block, and due to the difficulty of getting everybody in even one block to agree to stand a share of the expense, not many neighborhoods have taken advantage of the street department's offer in years past. Oiled streets are also protected to considerable extent from winter erosion, it is pointed out.

Monday and Tuesday of this week the street crew was busy cutting up wood for the city hall, and has three cords ready for fuel. The airtight heaters in the council room, the judge's office and the police department consume plenty of stove-wood; how many cords a week Street Superintendent Bill Askew couldn't even guess, but he knows it is plenty of work packing it up the stairs to the city hall. The city buys a good deal of wood, as it is only when dead trees or other trees are removed from city property that a free supply is available.

Into cord wood has gone Carmel's old Christmas tree at the foot of the hill on Ocean, which was removed this week after having been condemned by the state forester. It was infested with a particularly vicious type of beetle, which was endangering nearby pines. A new tree will not be planted in the place of the traditional Christmas tree, as there are two thrifty young pines on either side which will soon fill in the gap.

Next project for the street department will be the moving of the old beach rest room on Del Mar to a new location on the beach at the foot of Tenth street. It will probably be faced with stone. A new stone rest-room has been completed at the foot of Ocean, all except the plumbing, which will be installed in a few days.

The curb and gutter job along Scenic is now complete except for about 20 feet.

Eighteen Cases Heard By Judge George Wood

A busy month in Judge George Wood's police court resulted in the hearing of 18 cases and collection of $65 in fines during April, according to the monthly report to the city council. Disposal of cases was as follows: for disturbing the peace, one offender was fined; for maintaining bonfires without permits, two were dismissed with warnings; for drunken driving, one operator's license was suspended and a fine levied; four speeders were fined, two received suspended sentences, two hearings were still pending; one reckless driver was fined; fined or dismissed were three minor traffic violators with one still pending; reported to the state motor vehicle department was one offender who failed to appear to answer charges of driving without an operator's license, and parking in front of a fire-hydrant.

More Than Three Hundred Visitors for Hospital Day

More than 300 persons visited the Peninsula Community hospital Tuesday, May 12, when an open house was held by the hospital staff in observance of National Hospital Day. Many former patients attended, and parties were conducted through the building. Babies born at the hospital received special invitations to the affair, and 50 of them returned on Tuesday to have their footprints taken. Tea was served from 2 o'clock until 4.

Simon Rosenblatt Is Injured In Car Crash

Simon Rosenblatt, Carmel resident, is in the Community hospital suffering from a broken leg received last Saturday afternoon when his car collided with a truck driven by Jess Artellan, Seaside, at the intersection of San Antonio and Thirteenth.

Artellan was driving north on San Antonio, and the Rosenblatt car, driven by Miss Barbara Rosenblatt, was going east on Thirteenth. More serious damage was averted when both cars turned aside, but the impact was hard enough to injure Mr. Rosenblatt. Artellan was fined by Judge Wood for not possessing a driver's license.

Judge Wood also fined Miss Rosenblatt for driving with her view obstructed, the obstruction being her father, who was riding on the running-board, so was the chief sufferer in the crash.

Anne Greene Gives Final Concert on Eve of Departure for New York

FRIENDS and admirers who have been following her musical development with deep interest, were given a final opportunity to hear Anne Greene in a piano concert the evening of May 7, in the Greene studio. Miss Greene is leaving for New York, probably for a long stay, so the event had a special significance, as bringing to a close a series of concerts and recitals through her student years and more recently, when she has demonstrated her stature as a mature and well-equipped artist.

Before a friendly and appreciative audience, Miss Greene played a balanced and representative program of Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms and Debussy. Her approach to the piano is intelligent as well as sensitive; her touch has a distinctive, crisp quality, well-suited to the precision of the classics. This definiteness of enunciation has at times a quality of ringing challenge, as if the artist, having entered deep into the mood of the composer, finds there courage to propound convictions of her own.

While her interpretations of Bach, Mozart and Beethoven (represented respectively by the Fantasy and Fugue in D major, the D minor Fantasia, and the sonata Opus 31, No. 2) were sound and musically satisfying, Miss Greene indicates a strong feeling for Brahms, with whom she seems temperamentally well in tune. His strong foundation in the classical style, with courage to find new forms for his own richly imaginative, earth-rooted yet deeply spiritual ideas, are evidently more appealing to the young pianist than the more sophisticated later romantics. In the impressionism of Debussy, again, she finds strong affinity, and there is little to choose in her facility with these so contrasting composers. From Brahms she played the G minor ballade, two intermezzi, B flat and E flat minor, and B minor Capriccio. The Debussy numbers were "Dance of Puck," "Interrupted Serenade" and "Reflets dans L'Eau." My own preference, of all I have heard Miss Greene play, is for her Brahms, which she makes rich and infinitely satisfying.

Following the concert Miss Greene and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Greene, held an informal reception in their home adjoining the studio, for the auditors, many of whom were long-time family friends. Friendly interest of all Carmel will follow Miss Greene in her eastern trip, with the hope that the same recognition will be accorded there that Carmel has granted so generously.—T. B. M.

Three H. S. Students Eligible for Awards

Monterey High school is again this year to present the Bausch & Lomb honorary science award. This award is given to the student who, in the opinion of the faculty, has done the best work in science over a three-year period. Last year it was presented to Robert Kennedy, a Carmelite, who is now attending Reed's Teacher's College.

The award, established by the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company in 1932, is to discover and encourage promising students in the hope that some of the more than 300 winners who graduate annually will eventually make valuable contributions to various fields of science.

The students who are eligible for this award in this school are Ray Smith, Bob Davis and Thomas Gee.

Carmel Inn on San Carlos Opens

One of the finest small inns in California was opened here yesterday by M. A. Austin, in the newly remodeled, redecorated and refurnished Carmel Inn on San Carlos, formerly operated by Mrs. Anna Kitchen. Mr. Austin has come here from Palo Alto, and has had many years' experience in operating small hotels and sanatoria.

The inn has 15 rooms, a cheerful, attractive lobby, and a small dining room and kitchen, all on the second floor. Meals will be served to those desiring them, as the inn is operated on the European plan. The meals will be such as a private home would serve, as the dining room will accommodate only 12, and the planning and cooking will consequently be done on a small scale.

The "sameness" of many hotel rooms is avoided by the use of color and variety in the Monterey furniture, cheerful, informal rag rugs, novelty crash hangings in bright Spanish colors, woven bedspreads, upstuffed sofas. No two rooms have the same color combination. Each room has a bedside table, and a reading lamp with an attractive shade. The beds are of the most luxurious type, with box springs and inner spring mattresses. The main corridor is newly carpeted and has attractive hanging lamps.

SEVENTEEN ARRESTS

Seventeen arrests were made by the Carmel police during the month of April, according to the monthly report to the city council. Thirteen were for minor traffic violations, two for violations of the fire ordinance governing the maintenance of bonfires, one for disturbing the peace and one for driving while intoxicated.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Thornton of Hollister are at La Playa this week.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

MRS. Valentine Mott Porter and Miss Anne Greene are leaving today to drive east, Miss Greene to seek her fortune in New York, Mrs. Porter to spend the summer in Connecticut. They are going by way of Santa Fe, and will stop in the historic New Mexican capital for a few days.

In the east Mrs. Porter will join her daughter Valentine, Radcliffe student, and her young relative, Dr. Russell Williams and his wife, the former Cynthia Criley of Carmel Highlands. The young people were married in Carmel nearly two years ago, and have made their home in New York since then. Dr. Williams, graduate of Harvard and Johns Hopkins, is an interne in the Presbyterian Hospital in New York. Just before Christmas the young couple was blessed with a baby girl, named Marian. Despite the arrival of the young daughter, Cynthia Williams is completing her college course at Barnard.

The Porters and Dr. and Mrs. Williams, with other friends, have taken a charming old Connecticut farm house for the summer, near Hadlyme. Mrs. Porter will return to her home in Carmel Highlands in September.

TWO Carmel girls presented the program of a recent "twilight musicale" given by the Women's City Club of Berkeley. They were Marjorie Legge Wurmann, pianist, and Gladys Steele, singer of character songs. The pianist and her husband, Fritz Wurmann, took advantage of the opportunity for a visit with Mrs. Wurmann's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Legge, in Oakland. The program she presented in Berkeley was practically the same as the one she gave for the May meeting of the Carmel Woman's club.

Miss Steele, who is the wife of Iring Gundersen of the Press in the Forest, gave a program here last year at the Denny-Watrous Gallery, and has entertained at a number of private parties. Her time at her Carmel home is limited, due to her full schedule as entertainer, teacher and coach, in the bay cities.

The musicale followed a preview of the etchings of Roi Partridge in the Woman's City Club art gallery, and a reception honoring the artist. Mr. Partridge is professor of art at Mills college as well as department chairman and director of the gallery.

DAVID PRINCE, long known to Carmelites and guests at La Playa as "Dave," has left Carmel for San Francisco to go into business for himself. He is now vice-president and secretary of the Pacific Hotel Corporation, of which C. D. Mahanna is president and Craig Smith, who has many friends in Carmel, is vice president and treasurer. The corporation and its three officers own and operate the Lombard and Commodore hotels. Prince, who came to Carmel 20 years ago and has been at La Playa since 1925, will become resident manager of the Commodore.

ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE of Carmel and San Francisco, writer and newspaper man, will leave for Washington within a few days to take up new duties as assistant to the director of public information for the Farm Credit Administration. For the past three years he has been director of information for FCA in the western district of California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona. Mrs. Ritchie will remain in Carmel for the present, joining Mr. Ritchie in the national capital in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Follette, III, of Hillsborough, are spending this week in Carmel.

Filmarte Bills Varied Program

Two contrasting pictures are shown at the Filmarte this week-end, "Dance Band," light, frothy, tuneful, and "The King of the Damned," with Conrad Veidt a sombre and magnificent film of the penal settlement of Santa Maria.

"Dance Band" will be shown today, "The King of the Damned" tomorrow, and both pictures will be shown, in the order named, in a double bill Sunday night.

Next week, on Wednesday and Thursday, the incomparable Elizabeth Bergner will be seen in a German film, "Melo," the last picture she made in Germany before the Hitler government made it impossible for her to remain there. "Melo" is supplied with English dialogue titles. It is a splendid vehicle for the Bergner genius; no one who is moved by great acting should miss the film.

Outstanding Watercolors Form Exhibition at Carmel Art Gallery for Month of May

By THELMA B. MILLER

WHILE the exhibit is not uniform in quality, certain individual entries in the current showing of watercolors by members of the Carmel Art association, hanging all this month in the gallery on Dolores, are outstandingly fine. Warranted to command first attention of the art gallery visitor is a startlingly vital portrait by James Fitzgerald, of a bold, western individualist, an appealing subject, beautifully drawn and fine in color treatment. Typical is the attentively cocked head, the deeply seamed cheeks and firmly closed lips, and the eyes accustomed to scan far horizons. The battered sombrero and sun-bronzed face are outlined by an effective off-white background.

Watercolor is not a strong medium for marines, but two marines, in water color, as widely contrasted as possible in manner, are among the finest of the month's pictures. One is by Paul Dougherty, notable for its limpid simplicity, its economy of color, an effect of saying much with very little effort. The sea is a light and tranquil blue, delicately in motion, against palely golden headlands. The marine of Armin Hansen, on the other hand, is turbulent, with jagged dark rocks magnificently silhouetted—no not silhouetted, for there is a feeling of profound depths back of those rocks—but let us say in intimate relationship with the ocean's violence.

Hansen has also two small watercolors in the show, interesting in their contrast with each other, "North Sea Fishermen," full of lively color and detail and sharply lighted, the other, "On the Ways," sparse and restrained; the looming hulk of the boat about to go down to the sea, with sharp contrasts of sun and shadow. His fourth entry is an unusual pastel, "Before the Wind," embodying fine and forceful contrasts.

Another intriguing intimation of versatility is in the two offerings by William Ritschel; one a dark-hued pastel of plunging horses, somber and mighty, against a background of stormy sea and sky, drawing in a fishing boat; the other a view of fabulously-colored fish swimming in the transparent depths of tropical sea, between reefs of coral.

Two compositions by William

Watts require special attention, and that is literal. If Watt's broken colors bother you, try looking at them with eyes nearly closed; you will be startled at the way forms emerge and colors become supremely "right." One is a rocky Lobos shore, the other discloses the bold shape of Yosemite's Half-Dome in winter, mantled in blue-shadowed snow, shimmering at its foot a dark and glassy pool.

A charming coastal scene is painted by Laura Maxwell, a golden hayfield on a cliff sheer above the challenging, ringing blue of the deep waters of the Sur coast; a harmonious and effective composition. A cluster of white ranch buildings is given not too much importance in relationship to the immensity of sea and sky and the dominating peak in the background. Another Maxwell is the cluster of tulips, lusciously pink, the epitome of grace in their setting of white, and their light frame which is the ultimate right note.

Burton Boudney, inveterate painter of rugged California foothills, departs from his customary manner and subject, essays a happy study of the tranquil higher peaks; a sharp contrast of sun-washed, tawny gold foreground, bold pines in sun and shadow, mountains blue-hazed with distance. His little ranch scene shows again a new eye for color, high-pitched and intense in foreground grasses, little subdued in the more distant buildings. His "Salt Works" is a study in architectural angles, shadow and full light, bold and incisive in drawing.

The contrasting warm surfaces of white end-wall, rosy-brown shake roof, clear and simple composition distinguish Paul Whitman's "Adobe." Happy Boyce Parker offers a fine and friendly portrait of an old gentleman; another portrait, dainty and exquisitely fragile, is a pastel of a little girl, by Florence Lockwood.

Edith Maguire presents a lively water-front scene, lively not because of human activity, but through the force and vitality of color and drawing. The details of a tea-table are composed as a still-life by Ralph A. Coote; an old copper kettle with a fine texture and gleam, an amusingly smug Russian doll, her voluminous skirts presumably the tea-cosy, and various oddments.

Two attractive little Lobos scenes are painted by M. N. Levick; S. Hedger offers two landscapes executed in an unusual manner, with emphasis on stark form and yellow high-lights; J. V. Cannon has a good blue-green tone to her sea in "Rock-bound Coast," together with her conception of the Garden of the Gods; entered by Roberta Balfour are two pictures which she calls "Cucamonga Mountain" and "Nude."

Scout Court of Honor Tonight

Simple and informal will be the Boy Scout Court of Honor to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Boy Scout House. Parents of Scouts are invited to attend, enjoy an informal evening in the society of their sons and their sons' friends.

H. S. Crossman will preside as chairman of the evening, and the Sea Scouts will have charge of the opening and closing ceremonies. Chairmen of the three Scout troop committees, Everett Smith of the Sea Scouts, Fred McIndoe of Troop 86 and J. L. Schroeder for Troop 39, will present the various awards. Troops 39 and 86 will then present their version of an "amateur hour." There will be a social hour with refreshments after the program.

Monterey High School to Present Play Here

The Monterey high school senior play will be presented in Sunset school auditorium, June 5. The play is "The Family Up Stairs" by Harry Delf. The male lead, Joe Heller, is taken by Bernard McMenamin, a Pebble Beach resident. The mother, Emma Heller, is played by Florence Lockwood of Carmel. Other members of the cast are Harlen Wilder, Beulah Beach, Jean Stewart, Pat Selbecky, Vincent Dorney, Vera Benson and Charles Martin.

UPSHAW'S HAVE SON

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Upshaw on Monday, May 11, at the Peninsula Community hospital. The boy has been named Montague.

Goodwill Day to Be Observed Here

In celebration of Goodwill Day the Rev. Sturgis Lee Riddle of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, will speak at the 11 o'clock services at All Saints Church on Sunday, May 17.

His services were secured by the young people of All Saints parish, as they wish to show that they are doing their part in the celebration of Goodwill Day, May 18.

Rev. Riddle is a graduate of Stanford of the 1931 class and of the Episcopal Theological School, which is connected with Harvard at Cambridge.

The public is being extended a warm welcome to attend and especially are the young people invited as the services are being held for them. Members of the Carmel group of young churchmen will conduct the services Goodwill Day.

Japanese Church to Serve Salmon Feast

One of the famous salmon dinners of the Japanese Church of Christ in Monterey will be served today, over the noon period from 11:30 to 2, and this evening from 5:30 to 7. A series of these dinners have been given for several seasons past, to pay off the church indebtedness, and a number of Carmel people have been regular patrons. The Japanese are experts in the preparation of salmon, not only in the cooking, but in treating the fish from the time it comes from the water. The church is located at the foot of Pearl street in Monterey.

HENDRICK VAN EEGHEN DIES

Funeral services for Hendrick Van Eeghen, who passed away in San Francisco Tuesday night, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 at All Saints church. Mr. van Eeghen and his wife, Mrs. Lucille van Eeghen, came to Carmel about six months ago from Woodstock, New York. Mr. van Eeghen was a writer. Work which he was doing here was interrupted several weeks ago by the sudden illness which necessitated his removal to the San Francisco hospital where he died.

PARKER-POLLACK NUPTIALS

Miss Louise Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Parker of Pacific Grove, and Reed Pollock were married in Carmel Sunday, in the cottage on Torres in which the young people are now living, following a brief wedding trip to San Francisco. Immediate relatives and a few friends witnessed the ceremony.

The lead is capably handled by Betty Durnford.

Reader's Reactions

THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Editor The Carmel Pine Cone:

At last it would seem that the City Council of Carmel is beginning to appreciate the manner in which the present liquor law is supposed to function. The machinery is present for a satisfactory handling of the liquor situation in Carmel if the city council takes the proper action.

The result that the citizens of Carmel are endeavoring to avoid is anything in the shape of a public nuisance. It is my opinion that it is quite possible for the City of Carmel to zone itself as rigidly as it cares to, confining the issuance of liquor licenses to given areas. A zoning ordinance could provide in these areas for the opening and closing hours of liquor establishments, and further provide for a strict regulation against noise, drunkenness, the serving of liquor to minors, and other reasonable regulations and restrictions. After the zoning ordinance has been adopted, then the council will be vested with sufficient legal authority to control the situation. It will be the duty of the council to see that the provisions of the zoning ordinance are strictly enforced. If the State Board of Equalization refuses to revoke a license after the same has been recommended by the council, the council itself, in the event there has been a violation of the provisions of the zoning ordinance, can proceed in the courts to enforce the terms of the ordinance.

SCOUTS AT MEETING

About 15 Scouts attended the monthly meeting of the Boy Scout district council Wednesday noon at Normandie Inn. Among matters discussed were plans for the summer season at Camp Wing, Scout camp at Big Sur; excellent progress of the Cubs, who now number 58 in three dens; and the Sea Scout regatta at Monterey this week-end, with six "ships" participating in a full program of aquatic events.

Marion Kerby Sings and Talks Way Into Hearts of Carmel Audience

By THELMA B. MILLER

A NEW and exhilarating experience in entertainment was offered by the Denny-Watrous management at Pine Inn last Saturday evening, in presenting Marion Kerby, billed as a "singing character-actress," whose interpretation of American folk lore is on a less academic basis than usually encountered, and consequently more fundamental. Miss Kerby is an actress of long and rich experience; her platform manner has all the enveloping warmth and magnetism, the human quality of rich emotion effectively controlled characteristic of the technically trained actor in the heyday of the American theater. She is informal without destroying the dramatic illusion. She comes trailing the clouds of glory of the "real" theater; she can unbend and become folksy without sacrifice of glamour.

Miss Kerby has created her own particular medium as an entertainer; the sources from which she draws her material are little known and practically untapped. Added to her well-learned ability to mould her audience to a mood, her associations and experiences in the deep south have opened to her a wealth of mountain songs, Negro lullabies, nursery rhymes, and best of all, the spirituals which she calls "exaltations"; less formalized and "civilized" than the spirituals usually presented from the concert stage.

Probably due to the Amos and Andy influence, the automatic and instinctive reaction of most audiences to a tinge of Negro dialect is a laugh. Miss Kerby has plenty of robust comedy in her programs, but the way she coaxed her hearers Saturday night from a relaxed and hilarious mood to something approaching genuine reverence through her superb presentation of the exaltations was a tribute to her technique, and a proof of her own sincerity of feeling.

We hope it is hardly necessary to point out that Miss Kerby is not primarily a singer. She has never pretended to be a concert artist of the type specializing in operatic arias and leader, but the material which she finds so absorbing and satisfying that she inevitably passes it on, is best couched in musical terms. She knows how to use her voice most efficiently and to best effect, as all properly trained theatrical people do, but the singing is purely incidental to the material and its proper dramatic presentation.

The monologue, "Namin' ob de Chillen" was a concession to those who wanted to laugh, and to my way of thinking could be omitted without being missed. It does not compare favorably with the dramatic beauty of such grand songs as "In My Dyin' Hour," "You Must Come in at de Do'," and "Dry Bones." The artist set the stage for the songs by describing scenes from which they might emanate, as a spontaneous, more or less extemporaneous interpretation of the religious feeling of the moment, not a formal song. Some of the airs may have come over from Africa; their origin is lost in the mists of antiquity. The words express the deep reverence of a naive, unschooled people.

Two exquisitely lovely songs were included on the program; the Negro lullaby, "Rock the Cradle, Mary," built on unusual intervals, hauntingly, mystically beautiful; and "The Cherry Tree," one of the Kentucky mountain songs, with words of profound if primitive religious feeling, of rich and strange melodic line.

No more effective setting could be desired for Miss Kerby's songs than that arranged by Hamilton Forrest, and played by her accompanist, Lloyd Browning. The harmonies are not conventional, but rather in the modern manner, which adds to their variety and richness.

The concert was not as well attended as it should have been. Though Miss Kerby has a vogue in Europe and in the east, she is as yet little known in the west, and Carmel appears a little unwilling to take a chance on something new, as yet unstamped with the approval of the western metropolitan centers. Those who did venture the experiment were richly rewarded for their effort.

Pistol Club In Another Victory

Last Sunday, on the police range at Toro Park, the Carmel Pistol Club came out on top in a 38-calibre revolver match with the officers of the State Highway Patrol. The score was Carmel 1292, Highway Patrol 1213. The local shooters were much pleased at this victory as the police had beaten them in the previous match two weeks earlier. This year's series now stands three wins for Carmel, one for the Highway Patrol.

Individual scores follow:

NEW WRINKLES IN BUILDING

Building continues to be one of the most absorbing of topics in Carmel, with the village and its environs dotted by an amazing profusion of new homes, a veritable flowering of beauty and comfort. Like everything else, building went thru a long period of doldrums, and it occurred to us that certain changes might have taken place in building methods and materials, of which we would now begin to reap the benefit.

This proves to be the case. During the depression, when building was at a standstill, production engineers had time to catch their breath and to devote time to research. When things were proceeding at a lively clip, there was nothing to do but go on in the same old paths, which had proved satisfactory for a good many generations. Native ingenuity had its innings when building slowed down, and tentative experiments were made in the direction of cutting production costs, use of new materials, or of old materials in new ways.

This wealth of new ideas is significant to us, because they have begun to have an effect on Carmel building; they are not confined merely to the fabulous pages of Fortune, to the "functional" structures of architects' dreams, nor even to such cities as New York.

Not that all new ideas are tried out in Manhattan first;—we are told that the first steel-reinforced concrete beam was used in a Los Angeles theater, built about 1915. This represented the greatest forward stride in building in its time, resulting in vast changes in engineering ideas as applied to the erection of great buildings.

And now, building, even on the Monterey Peninsula, bids fair to be revolutionized again, by the use of new materials and methods which are already making their appearance here. A note of advanced industrial progress has come to this out-of-the-way village, even in advance of its appearance in many larger cities of the Pacific coast.

This will not mean radical change of external design. There are certain traditional lines and proportions, external and internal, which spell HOME, and which home-owners will continue to demand, together with those which have a certain indigenous significance. But in concealed details, those which mean a revolution in the factors contributing to comfort and liveability, there have been vast steps forward by which Carmel home builders will profit without sacrifice of charm and simplicity.

From time to time we will tell of some of the "new wrinkles in building" already embodied in Carmel homes, or available here.

Mortals and Immortals

Science Sermon Text

"What man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God." These words from I Corinthians comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, May 17, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Mortals and Immortals." Included among the Scriptural selection will be: "For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming. . . For this corruptible must be put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality" (I Cor. 15: 21-23, 53).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "Mortality is finally swallowed up in immortality. Sin, sickness, and death must disappear to give place to the facts which belong to immortal man. Learn this, O mortal, and earnestly seek the spiritual status of man, which is outside of all material selfhood" (p. 476).

Lloyd Eric Reeve to Lecture on Writing

Lloyd Eric Reeve, noted author, will lecture in the creative writing department of the Mills College summer session of creative arts, June 22 to Aug. 1. He is a professional writer of fiction, whose novelettes, serials, and some 150 short stories have appeared in 40 different magazines. In collaboration with John B. McDonnell he has written and published "Starved Rock Through the Centuries," a book of frontier history and Indian folklore. An essay on writing of his recently appeared in The Author and Journalist Magazine. Mr. Reeve will lecture July 14 on the dynamics of fiction.

After visiting relatives in St. Louis for several months, Malcolm Macbeth will return to Carmel early next week.

No Home Improvement COSTS SO LITTLE AND GIVES so much

HERE is an offer that is too good to pass up. Think of it—$12.50 for your old water back, non-automatic or combination water heater when you buy your new Automatic gas water heater.

But you will have to hurry. This liberal trade-in offer expires on May 28.

Nothing you can buy brings a home so much comfort and convenience as the quick on-tap service of hot water an Automatic so dependably and economically provides. No more waiting for water to heat. No more "tank-patting." No more heating too much water and letting it get cold again. That always means wasted fuel.

Come in before this offer expires and trade in your old water heater on a new Automatic. You can use the revised F. H. A. terms of Nothing Down and as little as three dollars a month. Don't delay. This exceptionally liberal trade-in on a new Automatic selling for fifty dollars or more will be in effect only a few more days.

WE STILL BELIEVE IT

No newspaper can take a definite editorial stand without challenging a certain amount of conflicting opinion. Frequently a "definite stand" is on someone else's toes, and provokes retaliatory shin-kicking. That is to be expected. The Pine Cone has at no time believed that the sentiment of Carmel is unanimously "dry." Among the "moderates," as is always the case with liberal groups, there are almost as many shades of thought as there are individuals. To some Carmel liberals, The Pine Cone's opinion on the present liquor situation, as expressed editorially, seems inexcusably rigid; while of course it is not drastic enough to suit some of the dries.

We have been asked if we were sincere in saying, last week, that . . . "Excessive public drinking was not a part of the Carmel atmosphere, ever, until a few months ago." That statement, to which some of our readers disagree, has been interpreted as hypocrisy.

We were perfectly sincere in making that statement. If we were wrong, that is an entirely different matter. We are willing to listen to evidence that we are wrong; to date we still adhere to our original opinion. Some evidence has already been produced in descriptions of certain parties in years past which have set the entire village by the ears. We might quibble by saying that this was not "public drinking"; or we might also say that the fact that people are still talking about them, years afterwards, is an indication that such events were comparatively rare. In places where a good deal of heavy drinking is customary, specific parties do not stand out particularly in retrospect.

Whether or not bootleggers plied a flourishing trade in Carmel during prohibition days is another moot question which we are not prepared to answer. Whatever the experience of others may be, our evidence, as accumulated from friends and acquaintances in Southern California, the San Francisco bay area, the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, is that people did not come to Carmel to drink, but rather to get away from atmospheres and associations which had led to too rapid a pace. The deep affection which many outsiders have toward Carmel, as the scene of frequent vacations and week-end trips, carries with it the attitude that excessive drinking is neither seemly nor necessary here. That, remember, is not presented as a unanimous opinion, but that which rises merely from our own experience. Probably an exception may be claimed in the case of vacationing college students, but our acquaintance is confined largely to mature people. The assumption that all college students drink may also be an unfair one.

Carmel is not the only community the character of which has been changed by the appearance of public drinking places. We have been interested in the reports of numerous tourists that they "no longer care for" this town or that, because haunts that they have visited pleasurably in times past are now awash and attracting a new type of crowd.

Just because public drinking is now legal, that is no sign one must like it. People who do not condemn all drinking on moral grounds may still find distasteful the sort of atmosphere which public drinking breeds, and the sort of people you involuntarily rub shoulders with in the relaxed and informal settings of the modern tavern. And the question still remains; will not a plethora of drinking places injure Carmel, both tangibly and intangibly.

JELLYFISH

*Lying in deep-pillowed
 Softness of a sandy beach,
 A jellyfish
 Is a spineless mass
 Of slimy helplessness.*

*Yet I have seen a jellyfish
 Riding a storming surf
 That shook the solid cliffs
 And gnawed with dripping teeth
 At their granite base—
 Cupped in its crystal heart
 Were gleams of darting color
 As it rode the wild charge,
 In gay abandonment—
 Dancing in a chaos
 That shattered ships of steel.*

*Thrown on a sandy beach,
 Deep in smothering softness,
 A jellyfish
 Is a spineless blob
 Of oozing helplessness.*

Here's Looking at You

By LOIS COLLINS PALMER

THOUGH Public School Week, when everybody looks at the schools—or should—is past, it may not be too late for an extra word of comment anent the recent exhibitions and programs at Sunset school. Along with all the other changes which have taken place, and which are all to the good as one looks back on the years which normally bright children were obliged to waste in the little red school house and its ugly brick successors—it appears that Sunset, and presumably other good modern schools, sedulously avoids the "star" system, conveying the impression of individual excellence by mass effect.

YOU remember, in the days of our youth, the smug little parrots who were always called upon to "speak a piece," because they could be counted on not to forget, and to make a good impression on visitors; the good spellers who were called on to show off for the county superintendent or the school trustees; the lone boy soprano who had a part on every school program as regularly as rain; the little girl whose mamma was able to afford piano lessons for her, and without whose contribution no entertainment could be contemplated.

NO more the pushing forward of children who have had special advantages, or those who are showmen by nature, while the mediocre are allowed to languish in undiminished obscurity. The impression given by Sunset school entertainments is that all the children there are super-normally gifted, and that is not true, of course. They are probably more or less average children, but all are "brought out," with emphasis on group activities rather than individual performance. That does not prevent the specially attractive or bright child from making a vivid impression, but he is not pushed forward while others are neglected.

IT is evident, too, in the class, craft and art work, that the accomplishment standard of all has been raised a good many notches above the average level of our day. Art instruction, as given now, did not exist in the schools of 20 years ago, when everybody copied the same picture, one or two who could draw produced results judged worthy to be put on exhibition. The children at Sunset school are not copying, but creating, no two in the same manner. This is one valid method of developing rugged individualism.

CANDIDATE DONALD HALE

Widespread expressions of satisfaction have greeted the announcement that Donald Hale is to be a candidate for Sunset school board of trustees at the election on June 5. He seeks the post to be vacated by E. H. Ewig, who for four years has helped to administer the affairs of the school district with outstanding efficiency and every manifestation of intelligent interest in the school. Mr. Ewig should not be allowed to go from office without a sincere tribute to the generous manner with which he has given his time, the friendly spirit he has manifested toward the school, and the executive ability he has brought to this important field of public service. Mr. Ewig was urged to be a candidate again, by many citizens who have found his tenure as chairman of the board a pleasing blend of business-like acumen and enthusiastic support for the school's educational program. He has declared, however, that he has "done his duty" by devoting four years to the job; that it is now someone else's turn.

And no better choice suggests itself than Mr. Hale. Like Mr. Ewig, he has children in the school, and is closely in touch with its program. He is also in touch with "the man in the street," as a Carmel professional man. He shares the dual concern of the man in the street for the best possible educational advantages for his children, with a reasonable interest that each school tax dollar he pays shall be administered to best possible advantage.

Mr. Hale has the backing of a representative group of parents and friends of the school, good Carmelites all, and it appears probable that there will be no serious contest for the office of trustee. With Mrs. Levinson and Mr. Hanke, Mr. Hale can be expected to act harmoniously and for the best interests of the school.

SUMMER CLEANUP

Carmel is presenting a more bright and shining face to the world this year than for several summers past, what with considerably fewer empty shops, new and attractive window displays where formerly yawned emptiness, dust and cobwebs. We like the effect ourselves, and we think our summer visitors will like it too.

With the added attraction of bright and pretty things to look at as we saunter down the business streets, we would appreciate a little slicking up of the streets themselves. Isn't it the Dutch who have that saying, "If each man sweeps before his own door, the whole village is clean?" Along with a broom and a muscular arm, he who sweeps before his own door should also be provided with a dustpan. No problem is solved by sweeping over the edge of the curb, for we have no whitewings to finish the job, in Carmel.

SHOTS AT RANDOM

"Hundreds of new rackets are being developed to swindle veterans of their bonus payments." Holding baby bonds for ransom would be something new.

MARION KERBY'S visit in Carmel last week-end, when she was presented in concert at Pine Inn Saturday evening, was the occasion for a reunion with old friends, and for two delightful parties. Old associates of theatrical days were Helen Ware and Frederic Burt, and Miss Kerby and Paul Daugherty, the Highlands artist, were friends in New York but had not met for many years.

Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous gave a tea for Miss Kerby and her accompanist, Lloyd Browning, Friday afternoon when they arrived from Santa Barbara, at which the artists entertained with a characteristic group of Miss Kerby's numbers.

After the performance Saturday evening, Helen Ware and Frederic Burt entertained with a supper for Miss Kerby and her party, which included, in addition to Mr. Browning, Miss Janet Spencer, vocal coach and former concert artist; her Santa Barbara manager, Mrs. Marian Herbert; Mrs. F. B. Short and Miss Florence Short of New York City; and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Meltzer of Saratoga. Others at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. George Marion, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Ross C. Miller, Mrs. Zanetta Catlett, Miss Hazel Watrous and Miss Dene Denny.

Despite the arduous program she had earlier given, Miss Kerby was still in fine fettle, and entertained the group with additional numbers from her extensive repertoire. The artist let it be known that the chief thrill of her Carmel appearance was in having George Marion as a responsive and appreciative member of her audience. Mr. Marion contributed to the party an original story, told in verse form.

Staying at La Ribera, Mrs. C. K. McClatchy has been making one of her frequent visits to Carmel. Since the recent death of her husband, the veteran publisher of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, Mrs. McClatchy has become president of the McClatchy Publishing company, which controls the leading newspapers of Sacramento, Fresno and Modesto.

After living in Carmel Highlands for the past year, Mr. and Mrs. A. X. Merz are leaving to make their home in Los Angeles.

Having spent the winter in Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Grenelle and Mrs. George Wilcox, sister of Mr. Grenelle, have left for their home in the east. Mrs. Grenelle is a sister of Miss Celia B. Seymour.

Accompanying her son and daughter-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Williston Ford of San Francisco, Mrs. I. N. Ford left yesterday to spend a month camping in Zion and Bryce National Parks.

At the end of last week, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bolger left to return to their home in Washougal, Wash. Here for a month for Mr. Bolger's health, they occupied the Belknap studio on Carmelo during their first visit to the peninsula. They hope to return soon and often. For their last week-end here, their son, Hubert Bolger, flew down from Washington to join them.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse gave a luncheon at their Carmel valley ranch Sunday, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Potter Russell who have recently returned from China. In addition to the Russells, the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. John Magee, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Whitehouse (New York City), Mr. and Mrs. S. F. B. Morse Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Slater, Mr. and Mrs. Francis McComas, Mr. and Mrs. Edmunds Lyman, Mrs. Cyril McNear, William W. Crocker, Mark Elworthy, Raymond Armsby, Harry C. Hunt, Sheldon Cooper, Paul Winslow and Gordon Armsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurd Comstock visited recently with his mother, Mrs. Nellie Comstock, in Santa Rosa, and with his brother and sister-in-law, Judge and Mrs. Hilliard Comstock.

After visiting here for several months, Dr. and Mrs. Gorham Bacon have left to return to their home in the east. Mrs. Bacon is a sister of Mrs. William Sloan Coffin.

Liesel Wurzmahn bade her Carmel friends farewell this week as she left for a summer in Europe with her parents, whom she will join in Switzerland. She went first to San Francisco, then will visit friends in Los Angeles, enroute for the east with a stopover at Grand Canyon, and sail from New York about June 1. She expects to return to Carmel in the autumn.

Miss Celia B. Seymour, who was delayed in her expected earlier return from Pasadena by a severe attack of pneumonia, arrived at her home here to convalesce this week. She has been away for nearly two months.

San Franciscans staying at Del Monte over the week-end included: Mrs. Clinton E. Worden, Mrs. Alfred S. Tubbs, Miss Jennie Hooker, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Coleman, Jr., Miss Agnes Coleman, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Dignan, Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Rodolph, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Alderson, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Fleishhacker, Mrs. Herbert Choyinski, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Black and Miss Kathryn Black, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Vanderpool, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cairns, and Marshal Hale.

Mrs. Herbert McGuckin and Mrs. Harry Hilbert gave a bridal shower and monopoly party for Miss Lillias Carroll of Pebble Beach, affianced bride of Raymond Rice, at the McGuckin home. Gifts of linen were presented to the honoree. Miss Carroll is the daughter of Mrs. Janet R. Carroll, and Mr. Rice, a newcomer to Carmel, is the son of Mrs. Mary A. Rice, of Worcester, Mass. The couple will be married in June. Guests at the shower, in addition to Miss Carroll, were: Mrs. Vernon White, Mrs. Jean Juillard, Jr., Mrs. Eugene Rickett, Mrs. Arthur Hilbert, Miss Florence Edler and Miss Mary Wheldon.

Mrs. Hans Hartman and Miss Mary Helm of Modesto were here this week to arrange for a summer cottage.

Ella Winter has purchased the Eisenstein house at the end of Mountain View, in the Eighty Acres.

James L. Duff, Los Angeles coffee broker, is taking a house in Carmel for his family for the summer season.

Herbert E. Robinson of Gilroy, owner of property on Carmel Point, was here on business this week.

Obliged to terminate their vacation, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Bruning were called back to their home in Palo Alto yesterday. They had expected to remain until the end of May.

Mrs. Ward Law came down from Burlingame and is spending a few days in her house here.

Ray Burns, former Carmelite now living in Fresno, spent last week-end with K. Y. Saper.

Mrs. Paul Winslow of Pebble Beach is vacationing in Honolulu.

Mrs. Virginia Brobst, former teacher at Sunset school, has taken a house on Junipero for a week. She is accompanied by her two children.

Jean Crossman left today for San Francisco, where she will attend the Mills College horse show.

Charlotte Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mathews, who left several weeks ago to see the sights of Mexico, are now in Hollywood, and expect to return to Carmel next week.

next Tuesday afternoon, May 19, at 3 o'clock. Planned is a reunion of past presidents, former members of the P-T. A., whose children have now graduated from Sunset, as well as all active members. Mrs. Wendy Prince is chairman for the day and is directing the playlet which sketches the history of the organization. She is being assisted by Mrs. Edward G. Kuster, Mrs. William S. Prolli and Mrs. Millard Klein.

Guests of honor will be four past presidents who are still residents of Carmel: Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger, the first president; Mrs. Vera Peck Mills, Mrs. Hurd Comstock and Mrs. E. A. H. Watson. It is possible that Mrs. Van Pelt and Mrs. Mary Adda Reade will also be able to attend.

Pupils of the first, sixth, seventh and eighth grades will participate in the playlet arranged by Mrs. Prince. Patty Lou Elliott will represent Mrs. Schoeninger; Larry McLaren Principal Otto W. Bardarson, and Babette De Moe will play Mrs. Bardarson. Others in the large cast are Bill Coffin, Dick Williams, Arthur Strasburger, Charlotte May, Ann Williams, Lillian Ohm, Gerry Shephard, Elaine McKinzie, Emma Ann Wishart, Harriet Hatton, Eleanor Hart, Ann Whitman, Jacqueline Klein, Bobby Haller, Donald Morton, Eleanor Johnston, Elizabeth Petty, Patty Ann Ryland, Dorothy DeAmaral, Phyllis Watson, Nancy Hale, Laurel Bixler, Pete Steffens, Patsy Shephard, Howard Levinson, Joan Fauntleroy, Sean Flavin, Jackie Leidig, Jimmy Welsh, Gordon Stoddard Jack Harner, Hugh Gottfried, Louise Prince, Constance David, June Delight Canoles, Carolyn Raine, Frances Koepp, Barbara Moriarty, Barbara Josselyn, Lorraine Hanssens, Sue Dekker, Mort Henderson, Victor Harber, Ruth Kaiser, Christine Leffingwell, and Barbara Stoney.

Mordkin Is Dead and Shands Mourn

Mordkin is dead. Full of years and with a useful life behind him, he passed to a well-earned reward on Tuesday. Probably Carmel's oldest equine inhabitant, Mordkin had lived here nearly as many years as his mistress, Mrs. Arthur T. Shand, and to the ripe old age of 24. Once a polo pony, Mordkin was for years ridden daily by Mrs. Shand. For the past few years he had been retired from active service, as an old polo-field injury had resulted in rheumatism gripping one of his hind legs. He enjoyed an honorable retirement, with plenty of grain, daily entertainment at pasture in the lovely wooded lots kindly made available to him by the Spoehrs, across the road from the Shand home on Viscaino. He was encouraged to take gentle exercise by his mistress, who walked with him daily. At night he was bedded snugly in his stable.

So long as the old horse enjoyed life, he was assured of a happy, peaceful retirement. When life became a burden, it meant that his number was up. Tuesday morning he was unable to rise; the rheumatism had gained the ascendancy at last. The gallant old veteran was dispatched painlessly to the Elysian Fields.

SUNSET BASEBALL TEAM DEFEATS BAY VIEW CLUB

Sunset defeated Bay View in a spirited game of baseball last Friday evening, somewhat to their own surprise and with a score of 13 to 3. The surprise was in view of the way in which the local boys were overwhelmed in a match with Bay View earlier this season. The Sunset second team lost its game, however. Decided improvement has been shown by the local boys, a revamped lineup having strengthened the team.
